THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1970

EAST HIGH SCHOOL

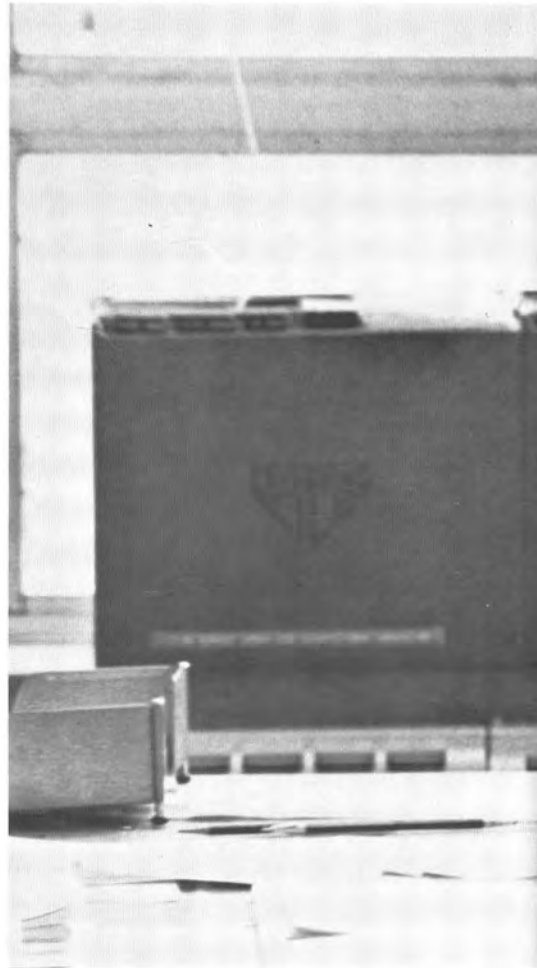

ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

Volume 67

Dedication:

In this dedication we would like to show our appreciation to one special member of the faculty who has shown a great interest in our class: Mr. Stanton.

Since 1962, Mr. Stanton has aided East High students with their academic problems, preparations for standardized testing and college applications. His unselfish devotion and genuine concern has given the Senior Class of 1970 encouragement and inspiration.

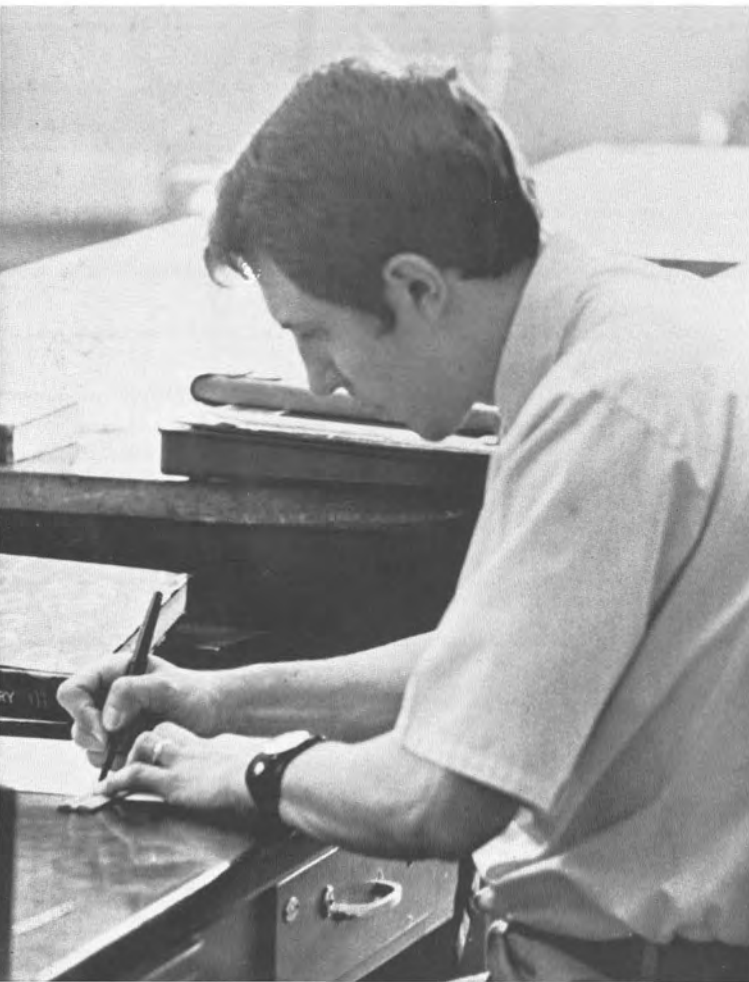

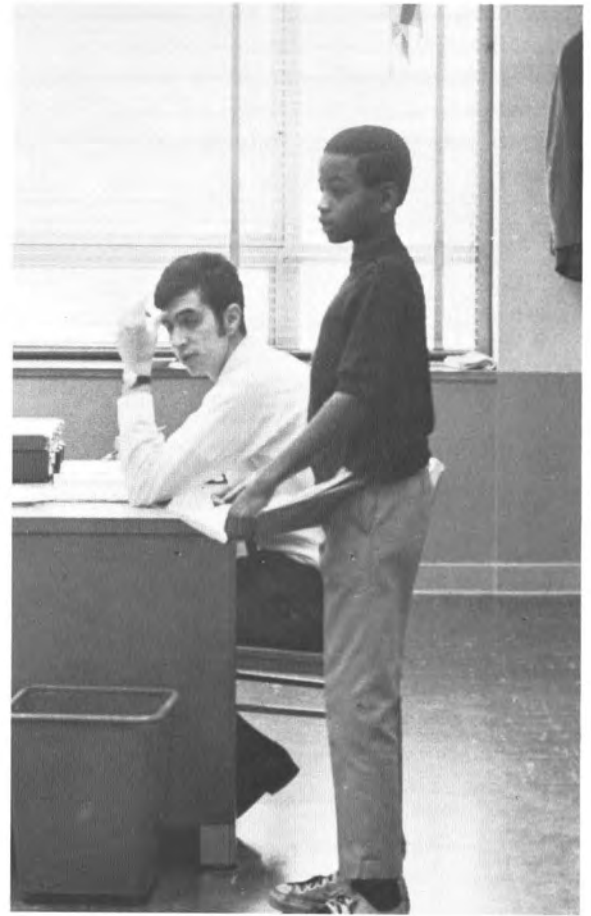

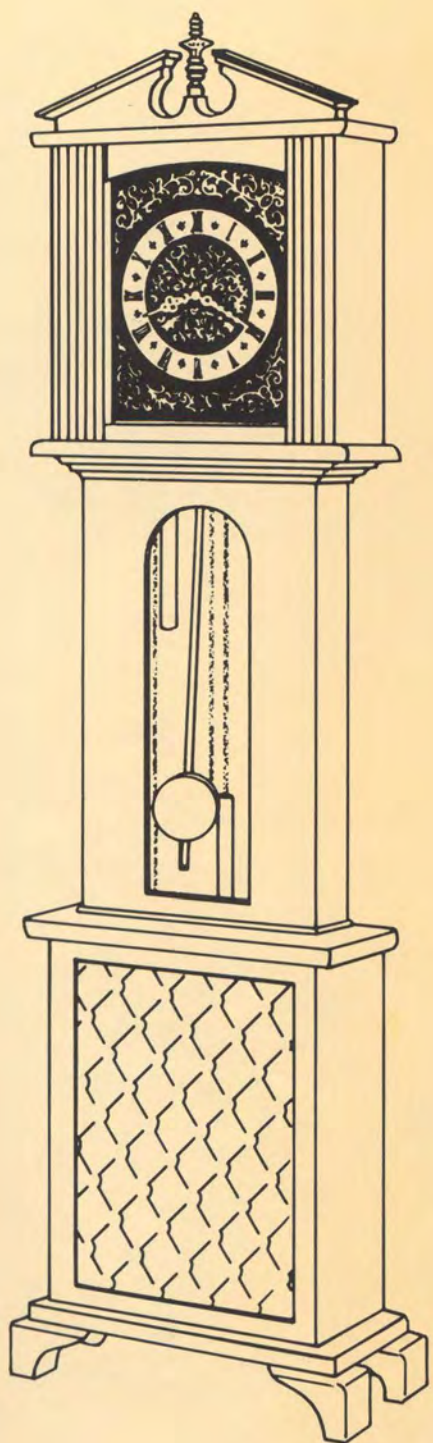

Mr. Stanton

He has shared our joys and difficulties and has given us the needed information and insight for making our important decisions. His never ending patience is appreciated by all who know him.

His personal interest in each student makes Mr. Stanton very special to each of us. In recognition of these great qualities, we of the 1970 ORIENT staff dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Julius Stanton.

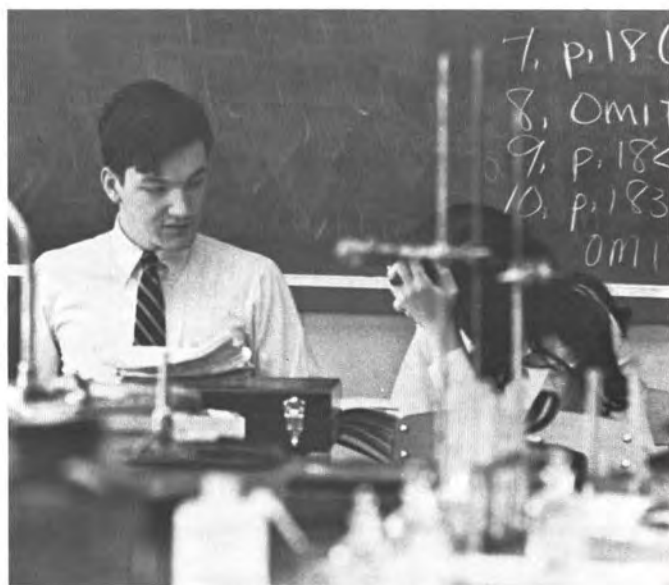

FACULTY and ADMINISTRATION

THROUGHOUT THE HIGH SCHOOL YEARS, a student is most influenced by the faculty members themselves. The daily contact between individual students and teachers creates opportunities to inspire and guide students; by this means communication between the student body and faculty as a whole can be strengthened. Since the length of time spent in high school is relatively short, it is the responsibility of every faculty member to realize each student's particular qualities and abilities and guide him toward utilizing these to his best advantage. Most teachers and administrators have devoted many years to education. Although each has his own methods, all have a wealth of time and experience to share with the student.

This communication and sharing between student and teacher leads to the realization that education is a two-way process, in which both sides learn and benefit. Teachers and administrators aid students by inspiring them, leading extra-curricular activities, working with individual students, guiding them, and giving the kind of advice that only time and experience can bring. Through this attempt at understanding and communication, education takes on a new, broader meaning. As time passes, the student will begin to realize the immeasurable value of his high school education, the many rewards it has given him, and the goals it has brought him a step closer to achieving.

PRINCIPAL—Mr. Alfred J. Valvano

Coordinating the movements of our giant time-piece is never an easy task, yet Mr. Valvano has succeeded in the efficient operation of our school. His personal interest and willingness to listen to the ideas of the students has been appreciated by everyone.

SENIORS

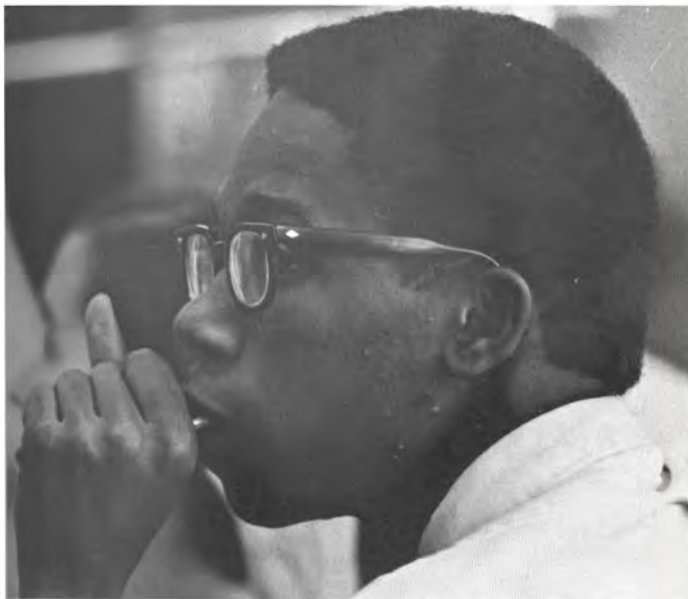

IT HAS BEEN SAID that "time waits for no man" and it certainly did not wait for us. As seniors we are able to recall four marvelous, fun-filled years at East High.

Although we were not formally organized in our freshman year, our class spirit clearly identified us as the Class of 1970.

Under the executive leadership of Jackie Wehbring and vice-president Valerie Stabins, our sophomore class showed its potential. With their help and that of our secretary Annette Munto, treasurer Mary Abbott, social chairman Vince Barone, and advisors Mrs. Hill and Mr. Kurtz, we increased our treasury with the successful sale of hurricane candles and a dance with the Trackers.

The Lincoln-Zephyr were featured at our junior dance, planned under the guiding hands of our junior class officers: George Wolf, Lorie Lachiusa, Audrey Nowinowski, and Jean Hogan. Their careful planning also created the memorable Junior Prom "Camelot" with the Noble 4.

As seniors, we have experienced four exciting and eventful years. A highly successful candy sale and the Senior Ball were made possible by our re-elected junior class officers. During this past year, Mr. Giallombardo replaced Mr. Kurtz as advisor to our class. Thanks to their experience, we are able to recall one of the most successful senior years in East High's history. Now as we look back upon these years, we can see the mark that time has left upon us and look hopefully to the future.

STUDENT LIFE

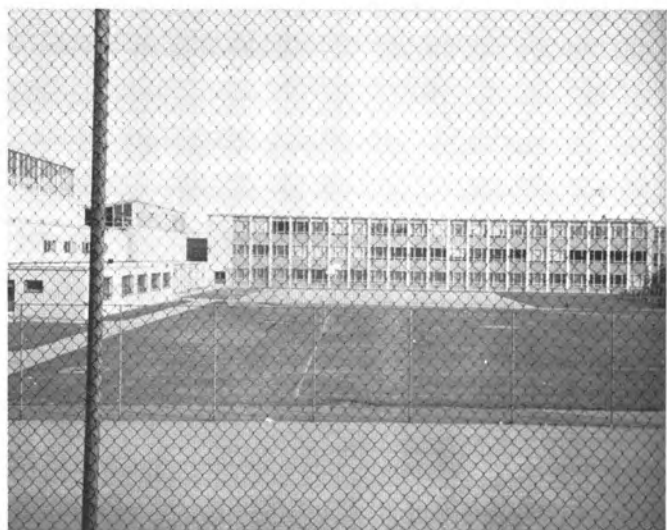

EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES play a major role in a well-rounded student's education. Each student is free to choose between intellectual debates and vigorous sports; each serving to develop a fuller character. East High offers a learning experience beyond the classroom; a social development which enables students to work and to get along with others. As John Dewey once said,

Education is a social process . . .

Education is growth . . .

Education is not preparation for life; education is life itself.

The Faces of East High

"The King and Queen of the Junior Prom"

"The Land of the Giants?"

"Don't be camera shy"

"If I came here in eighth grade, what year was it?"

"That's a no-no"

"Evolution"

"Jose pledges undying love to a pretty lady"

"Jose pledges undying love to a pretty lady"

"Nature hath no wrath

"Has anybody seen my watch?"

"I had the whole world in my hands!"

The Wolgast Chapter of the National Honor Society, formed in 1959, recognizes students with outstanding scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Juniors with final grades of B or above are inducted in the spring; in the fall, seniors with at least a B average are inducted. The responsibilities of the National Honor Society include providing tutors for students, keeping the Honor Roll, running the Paperback Bookstore, and carrying the signal flags during fire and air raid drills.

An example of the fine scholastic achievement of our National Honor Society is the six seniors who received awards from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Four of these students were sent Letters of Commendation, while two, Tom Young and Elaine Dewey, achieved Finalist standing, which places them in the top one half of one percent of all college-bound seniors.

Youthful

Kathe Balter, Alberta Peri.

One year in America. What are the sensations, the impressions and the experiences that I am experiencing during my year of life in America as an Exchange Student?

It is not possible to establish a comparison between my home country, Italy, and my host country, America. They are two countries so completely different, with different customs, different ideals; in a word, with a life style completely opposite one another.

My first few months here were hard. The difficulty of expressing myself properly stood in the way of developing relations with my host family, my school fellows, and my teachers.

A good deal of time has passed since my arrival here in Rochester and now, in all good conscience, I can say I will never be sorry. My decision to spend a year as an exchange student in America was a carefully considered and conscious choice, not the result of some euphoric moment.

The things I had been told about the United States, I have found to be true: the big houses, many cars, wonderful cities and everywhere automation. However, I think that rather than to observe the landscape, it is interesting to know and to understand the American people; to be able to love them and, eventually, to accept their short-comings. In all cases I am sure of one thing; that I'll forget the short-comings while remembering all the friendly Americans who did not see me as a "foreign girl" but immediately treated me with love and comprehension and helped me in difficult moments.

Wherever in the world one finds warmth and human solidarity; that land will become dear to him no less than the land of his birth. And this is my feeling for America.

Alberta Peri

Diplomats

Troels Wolf, Tom Favitta.

A year of filling out applications and being interviewed ended, to my big surprise, in being selected to go to the United States for one year as a teenage diplomat.

On the 11th of August I had never been inside an airplane; next day I had entered three different planes, traveled hundreds of miles and seen the other side of the clouds. This was the beginning of a year filled with new experiences.

Being a Y.F.U. exchange student has really been exciting.

I come from a little Danish village of around 1000 people, so coming to Rochester has not only been a change from one country to another but also been a change from the society in a little village to the society of an American city.

I have participated in school-life, went out for soccer and wrestling, worked in a supermarket and been a member of an American family. In other words, I have lived as an American teenager and I can say that I have really enjoyed it. It has taught me your way of thinking, living and acting. I have found out that people are the same all over the world, though the customs and traditions are different.

I was surprised to find that a lot of Americans do not know where Denmark is, so let me explain. It is a little country connected with northern West Germany and it is east of England.

Yes, I think that Denmark can learn a lot from America, especially from the business aspect, but I also believe that the United States can learn a lot from the Danish society.

During my stay, I have started to feel proud of my country and to appreciate my family and home more than I ever had.

I shall never forget the experience filled and wonderful time I have had here in the United States of America. Thanks to everybody who was kind and helpful to me through this school year.

Troels Wolf

It has been said that the Dutch made Holland by conquering the sea. While living with a Dutch family for two months under the auspices of Youth for Understanding, I was able to feel their pride in their victory over the sea.

Although I lived in a small town in the northeast, my Dutch sister and I took small excursions to every corner of the country and our family vacation consisted of a four-week tour of Germany, Austria, Italy and Yugoslavia. Yet it was being able to establish bonds of understanding that made the summer so worthwhile. Living as a Dutchman, I saw and appreciated the Netherlands as no tourist could.

Time marched on; even for the Orient staff. Deadlines crept up almost without warning. Pictures lost in the mail, a shortage of candid, and overdue copy all added to the difficulty of meeting the deadlines. The more that was accomplished, the more there was left to do. Cropping picture after picture and working out layout after layout caused tension and worries. Yet, the pride in having designed a yearbook on our own erased any of the difficulties it entailed. All the problems we experienced seemed worthwhile as the final section went in to the printers.

CLARION

The 1970 Clarion staff has produced a newspaper of which East High can be proud. When it was published, which was not often enough in our opinion, it proved to be informative and well-written. It provided an outlet for student opinion and touched on both the comical and serious moments of student life.

THE CLARION

EAST HIGH SCHOOL - ROCHESTER, NEW YORK JANUARY, 1970 - ISSUE #2 - PRICE 10¢

"WE'RE THE CHAMPS"

Our Section 5-AA basketball champs came home again with the Eastridge Holiday Basketball Tournament trophy Jan. 4, starting 1970 off on the right foot.

Friday, Jan. 3, the "C-H-A-M-P-S" started off by defeating Eastridge, 60-50. The scoring, however, was close for a while, a very short while; 16-9 after first, 34-18 half, 50-37 third, 60-50 final score.

High scoring was Lastanza Moxley with 20 points and Gerod Brown with 16. Lancer's high scorers were Joe Allu and Mike Englert with 15 points each.

Saturday, Jan. 4, the Orientals came back with another fantastic win against Aquinas, to capture the E.H.B. Tournament, 53-51.

Larry Clark, 5'6" guard, lead opening of 16-6 with 6 points. However, the Irish came back second and finished the half with a 28-27 score. The third quarter was even closer with Wallace House hitting 6 and Aquinas' Rowling hitting 9 to end it with 41-41. With one minute to go, East ahead 51-49, Moxley put one in from the field and Aquinas ended it with a 2-pointer.

Two of our Orientals were on the all-star squad. Lastanza Moxley also voted Most Valuable Player, and Gerod Brown.

A "really good show" for Coach Rizzo and our "Champion" team.

NOTES on WASHINGTON

by Marra Gutman

Friday finally came. It had been raining, then snowing, then raining, and I think the rain/snow had stopped we got to the Unitarian Church, where the buses were about to leave for Washington.

Tons of people milled around, screeching "Hello," "Are the buses here yet?" "Did you see so and so?" "What kind of food did you bring?" and the general conversation that goes on before boarding a bus to attend a huge march and rally where you might get your head bashed in. The buses came, we got on them and said goodbye a million times, to all the people who had come to see us off. Our bus left with about 38 high school kids and 2 volunteer chaperones on it. The first thing the bus did was skid.

The ride was normal, for that sort of ride. Kids smoked (tobacco), made out, sang, clapped, shared food, tried to prevent the "Rochester" sign hanging out the window from blowing away, slept, and talked about cameras, sailing, "Easy Rider," dope, the United States Constitution, revolution, writing speeches, and when we would be in Washington. We also predicted the kind of accident the bus was going to have, if it was going to have one at all.

It had started snowing again, and we were driving down back roads because that route was shorter (?). There was certainly some concern about the safety of the whole thing.

We got to Washington at around 11:00 a.m. after being lost, and sleeping at a Howard Johnsons. We drove into the city; saw all these people walking toward the march; were greeted by a marshall; parked; split into small groups and walked off towards the march.

SPORTS

"I could give all to time except—except that which I myself have held."—Robert Frost.

EACH ONE OF OUR OUTSTANDING athletes will carry throughout the rest of his life that which he has held; victory, defeat, ecstasy, depression, and all the inner struggles that an athlete faces through competition will remain with him forever. Through this competition we learn a love for East High School. To fight for her so often, whether on the basketball courts, in the field, or on the mats, we are all united under a common cause. We fight together for the integrity and pride of our school. This working together for a common cause has in its own way prepared us to become a part of the future which awaits us. For this we thank East High and all who have led us through these years.

As we grow older we will lose many things to time, our youth, our strength, our vigor, but not our memories of East High School.

Football

This year's Oriental football team had a relatively disappointing season. Although our defense held all competitors to less than nineteen points, our offense lacked the scoring power we needed. Most of our strength lay in our powerful and well drilled lines. Outstanding players this year included Ray Domm, Kirk Conrow, and All-Scholastics Ray Kampff, Larry Waller, Gerod Brown, and Lastonza Moxley. With fourteen lettermen returning Coach Almansberger looks forward to a promising season next year.

Outstanding seniors included Steve Davis and Ed Appleby with David Forbes and Mark Kirchhoff returning next year. Coach Arnold looks forward to a promising season next year.

Plagued with misfortune, our Oriental Finmen found themselves in a meager fourth place in the City-Catholic League this year. With an outstanding team revolving around seniors John Keymel, Dave Yahn, Bob Phillips, and Curt Quirin, we found that technicalities were to be our downfall in both the Edison and Marshall meets.  VARDEN
YOUR OFFICIAL
YEARBOOK PHOTOGRAPHERS

Your education was good for a start.

But education alone isn't enough.

No one can teach you to have judgment and coolness under fire.

And yet, these are the very qualities that the business community is looking for in its future leaders.

The problems today are more complex, the solutions more difficult. So the people who lead must have more to offer than an education.

They must have desire to inquire, and an ability to inspire—not just people in business, but people in the community as a whole.

There may be a wealth of educated people today, but there are too few leaders.

From your class just may come the solution to the problem.

Life goes slow without love.
It moves along unhurried.
The sun rises.
The sun goes down.

There are those who pass by changing the time-cycle
if you're willing to wait.

I am always shy with these journeymen at first and by the time I get to know them they've gone away.
